

Acial QCENTRIS becomes QESTIT

Paris/Zurich, 06/20/2022

In March 2021, acial and QCENTRIS merged and now a new chapter begins under the new name QESTIT.

With immediate effect, the acial QCENTRIS Group changes its name to QESTIT. This name change allows the group to present itself as a joint company with years of experience in Quality Assurance / Software Testing. Together we provide our services to companies that want to give people the best possible experience with software.

The new name will already appear shortly on all mailings, communications, and other platforms.

The individual companies in the Group will initially operate under familiar names and will change their names accordingly soon. The commitment to customers, products, service quality and employees will of course remain unchanged.

About QESTIT:

We are Europe's QA specialists in sensible high quality demand industries like banking and insurance. We emerged from the experts for software testing and quality assurance: acial and QCENTRIS.

Together we provide our services to companies that want to give people the best possible experience with software.

We are Europe's QA specialists in sensible high quality demand industries. QESTIT emerged from the merger of two entities, experts in software testing and quality assurance: acial and QCENTRIS. With 600 consultants, spread over 7 countries, nearshore services and a training center, the group offers a wide range of services (testing services, test automation, test strategy audit, etc.) and pooled know-how at the service of their clients.
