

ADDQ and QESTIT are joining forces to strengthen their market presence in the Nordics

Paris/Stockholm/Zurich, 30.09.2022 - Both companies have announced this week, that ADDQ, experts in Quality Assurance from Sweden, will be joining the QESTIT group. This will further expand service offerings in Sweden and combine expertise and knowledge of both companies under one roof.

Statements from ADDQ and QESTIT

ADDQ is one of Sweden's leading experts in Quality Assurance with highly recommended consultants throughout the entire development chain, helping clients in a wide spectrum of industries.

"We are excited about the merge with QESTIT and the opportunities it will bring our employees and clients in Sweden as well as Internationally." Fredrik Abrahamsson, CEO

QESTIT is Europe's QA specialist in sensible high quality demand industries with 25 years of experience in software testing and quality assurance.

"The Nordic market is of great strategic importance for us. We are very pleased to have reached an important market position through the merger and we're looking forward to work together with the ADDQ team!" Reto Züst, CEO

Goals & Vision

Our identical mindsets brought us together, our strong ambition will take us further. With this new milestone in our group history, we are opening doors to more opportunities as well as development in Sweden and beyond.

Our goal is to strengthen our position as specialists in Software Testing and Quality Assurance even further. By offering services, ranging from continuous testing and high-end test automation, all the way to functional as well as non-functional testing cross industries, we support our clients in optimizing their software and help them offer their own customers the best possible experience.

With our nearshore, offshore, and onsite service possibilities, we are offering tailored solutions to our clients' needs as a reliable and trusted partner.

The combined skills, expertise, and experience of our consultants as well as their motivation to deliver the best possible results, are the backbone of our group. With ADDQ on board, this will grow even further, and we are looking forward to the future.
